BALTIMORE HAS HER PEGGY STEWART DAY

Patriotic Societies of Old City and Vicinity Pay Tribute to Momentous Event.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Baltimore, Md., Oct. 19.—In pursuance of a custom of many years standing, the patriotic and historical societies of Baltimore and vicinity held exercises today in celebration of "Peggy Stewart day." The day commemorates the anniversary of the burning of the brig Peggy Stewart, which incident was one of the most stirring and momentous in the early history of Maryland. The brig arrived in Annapolis at a time when public feeling against the taxes imposed by England was very hot. The vessel brought a cargo of tea, and when it was announced that the tea was subject to a tax the public became intensely indignant. The prevailing sentiment was similar to that which obtained in Boston on the eve of the famous "Tea Party." A meeting of representative citizens was held and the sentiment of the meeting was explained so forcibly to the captain and owner of the vessel, Alexander Stewart, that he set fire to the brig with his own hands in order to appease the popular indignation.

WOMAN ADDRESSED THE BANKERS OF AMERICA

Mrs. V. F. Church, Cashier of Joplin Institution, Told Of Woman's Qualifications For Work.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 19.—Mrs. V. F. Church, cashier of a bank at Joplin, Mo., faced the three hundred or more members of the American Bankers' association in convention today and told them of a woman's qualifications as a bank official. Mrs. Church was given a cordial reception by the men of finance. It was the final day of the thirty-second annual convention, which has been one of the most interesting and profitable ever held by the association. A discussion of practical banking questions occupied the greater part of the forenoon. The convention concludes this evening with the installation of new officers.
In setting forth a woman's qualifications as a bank official, Mrs. Church said, in part: "The first prerequisite for any bank official is that of absolute honesty and I believe I am justified in saying that women, as a rule, possess this qualification in a very marked degree. Perhaps there are reasons for it such as their environments, etc., but whatever the cause may be, I feel warranted in saying that fewer women are dishonest than men. In this day and generation, when we have been appalled by the gross dishonesty of bank officials in high positions, men who have been tempted beyond the breaking point, it is no small matter to see to it that our banks are officered by persons, whether men or women, who are absolutely honest under any and all circumstances, and the records will bear me out in the statement I have made, that very few women holding positions of trust have absconded, embezzled or otherwise misappropriated the funds committed to their trust."
Sterling integrity is most certainly another qualification for any bank official, and right here again, I claim for women that they possess this qualification in its highest form. As a rule women are reared and trained to bear themselves above reproach, and few of them would condescend to do anything that would lower them in the estimation of their friends or acquaintances, or in the business world; therefore it would indeed be rare to find a woman holding an official position in a bank who would stoop to do anything that would tarnish her name or reflect upon her reputation. Not even flattery or a dissolution of the spoils would tempt her to be otherwise than sincere and honorable in handling funds entrusted to the safe-keeping of her bank.
"We cannot all be bright, we cannot all be wise and sagacious, but we all can, if we will, be faithful and be faithful in the performance of the duties imposed upon a bank official."

By administering morphine after he had been drinking heavily. She enticed him away from Jamestown, where he had been working, and is believed to have made an attempt in San Francisco, to end his life. On the evening of March 24 the body of McVicar was found, crushed into a trunk left on the platform of the Southern Pacific depot in this city. The stench attracted the attention of the railroad men after the trunk was placed in the baggage room. An investigation disclosed the remains, and the following day an expressman gave a description of the woman who employed him to move the trunk to the depot. She was Mrs. Le Doux, who had bigamously married Eugene Le Doux of Jackson, Annapolis county. The woman was traced to San Francisco, and on March 26 was arrested and brought to Stockton. She admitted buying the trunk and rope used around the receptacle, but claimed that a mysterious "Joe Miller" had at the point of a pistol compelled her to purchase the trunk and rope after he and McVicar had returned from a drinking bout. The authorities proved Miller to be a myth. The trial lasted fifteen days and proved most sensational throughout.

CALIFORNIA MURDERESS SHOWS WONDERFUL NERVE

Remained Calm And Undisturbed On The Day Originally Set For Hanging--Proved But Not Convicted A Bigamist.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Stockton, Cal., Oct. 19.—This was a memorable date in the career of Mrs. Emma Le Doux, convicted murderess, though neither by word nor action did the woman indicate that the day was of any especial interest or importance so far as she was concerned. If the sentence of the court in her case had been carried out she would today have mounted the scaffold in San Quentin prison and paid the penalty of death for one of the most diabolical crimes committed in California in recent years. As the case now stands, however, the woman probably has many days of life before her. Though an appeal to the higher courts it is assured that the final end cannot be reached for some time to come. Meanwhile the woman, though under sentence of death, has made a display of nerve and self-control that has been the talk of the prison attendants and created great interest among criminologists, physicians and others whose attention has been attracted to the case.
The crime of Mrs. Le Doux was the killing of A. N. McVicar, who claimed to be her rightful husband, by administering morphine after he had been drinking heavily. She enticed him away from Jamestown, where he had been working, and is believed to have made an attempt in San Francisco, to end his life. On the evening of March 24 the body of McVicar was found, crushed into a trunk left on the platform of the Southern Pacific depot in this city. The stench attracted the attention of the railroad men after the trunk was placed in the baggage room. An investigation disclosed the remains, and the following day an expressman gave a description of the woman who employed him to move the trunk to the depot. ROOSEVELT MAY RUN AGAIN

RUMORED HE WOULD ACCEPT NOMINATION AGAINST HEARST.

Should the Latter Win in New York Contest, President May Again Be Candidate.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Theodore Roosevelt will again be a candidate for the presidency, if Hearst is elected Governor of New York, declared a Republican leader close to the nation's chief executive, to a Chicago Journal correspondent. He said that if the Democrats win in New York the next Democratic candidate for the presidency may be William R. Hearst, and that the Hearst peril is the only thing that can induce Roosevelt to change his decision not to run again.

"It is conceded that the man who is elected governor of New York will be the candidate of his party for president," added this leader. "If it is Hughes, well and good, but if it is Hearst, then look out for an early statement that the president has yielded to the popular demand, and has finally decided to cast aside a personal preference for private life and accept another term as president for the good of the party and the country."

To more than one of his friends, the president has stated that he would regard the election of Hearst as governor of New York a public calamity second only to his possible election as the president of the United States.

It is no secret that Theodore Roosevelt has been itching to roll up his sleeves and bump into the New York campaign. Were it not for the solemn traditions that hedge themselves about the presidential office he would like nothing better than take the stump in person against the New York editor.

Should the president's political lieutenants in that state bring the word to him at the last moment that Hughes is really in serious danger of defeat, it is altogether possible that he would ignore precedents and traditions and take the first train for New York.

SLOSSON LOSES BILLIARD TITLE

George Sutton Wins Championship in Game at New York.

New York, Oct. 19.—George Slosson, of this city, who won the title of the world's champion at 13-inch balk billiards, two shots in, at the international tournament here last April, lost his title to George Sutton, of Chicago, in the Madison Square garden concert hall Thursday night.

Sutton rattled off the caroms at a rapid rate. Slosson played fine billiards, but could not reach the mark set by his brilliant opponent. The score:

Sutton—68, 1, 33, 11, 0, 4, 12, 27, 202, 0, 9, 1, 37, 56, 43. Total, 500. Average, 81.416; high runs, 202, 66, 58.

Slosson—13, 0, 75, 32, 34, 21, 8, 40, 11, 23, 0, 8, 62, 9, 29. Total, 375. Average, 25. High runs, 75, 62, 40.

Before The Footlights.

"Bohemian Girl" Here Monday.

A fair-sized audience greeted the Standard Opera company last night, and were carried back to auld lang syne in the familiar favorite of a generation since, Balfe's Bohemian Girl. To the audience of today the rapture of lovers to the cadenzas and trills, the most ardent passages being expressed with "ahs" and "ohs," the style of last night's opera seems somewhat stilted. Nevertheless it does seem wholesome after years of musical comedy to come back, at least for a few hours, to the real harmony of good musical composition. It may be, after all, that as much love can be expressed in a beautiful group of notes with only an "ah" to express the heart's emotions, as in an aggregation of sounds in two-step rhythm telling a coy little maiden that "she looks awful good to father."—Rockford Register-Gazette.

North-Western's New Chicago Depot

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The action of the North-Western road in announcing its intention to build a palatial $20,000,000 depot fronting on Madison street, in Chicago, has spurred the Pennsylvania road into activity on the depot subject, once more. The so-called "Union depot," which is occupied by the Pennsylvania, the Burlington, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Alton, has been a disgrace to Chicago these many years and it is high time for it to give way to a modern structure. With the handsome North-Western depot across the street, the Pennsylvania management doubtless understands that the comparison will be odious, hence the necessity of early action. The North-Western is, therefore, to be doubly congratulated, first upon the decision to build a splendid depot on its own account, and second, because it has aroused its neighbor from its slumbers.

Another Wisconsin County

Evening Wisconsin: Wisconsin now contains seventy-one counties. When the next session of the legislature comes to an end it will have seventy-two, if a project now under way is carried to a successful issue. The new county, if constituted, will consist of two tiers of townships from the northern part of Clark county, the southern tier from Taylor county, and five or six from Marathon county. Opposition to the idea has shown itself in the past, and may present itself again, but settlement is progressing, and sooner or later the new county is likely to be born.

Catholic Citizenship

Milwaukee Free Press: We have never been able to discover any reason why the Catholic people of the United States protest and protest again that their citizenship is as loyal and as devoted to the republic in which we all live as that of the members of any other religious family, or of no religious family.

But they are often heard asserting their rights, as if their rights were denied by someone, and furnishing proof that they have been good citizens, and that when the country has been in need of defenders, Catholics have come to the fore, and done their share as men and as patriotic citizens.

We have an idea that there is no need for this proof, or for this protest. If religion makes better citizens, then the better the religion, the better the citizen. The frequency of the claim of good citizenship of Catholics, made by Catholics, is a sort of appearance of an acknowledgment that there is some question about it; and about whether the Catholic religion helps to make good citizens.

EXHAUSTING NATURE'S SUPPLY

Mr. J. J. Hill, the great railway magnate, recently said that what is taken from the mine can never be replaced, and that there is a limit to the supply of fuel and ore.

He also said that the highest conception of a nation is that of a trustee for posterity, and that this nation should not permit any waste of its natural resources.

This note of warning is timely, but it will not influence action to any large extent. The people of the United States are not noted for husbanding natural resources and but little thought is given to succeeding generations.

The slaughter of the buffalo on the western plains twenty-five years ago meant extermination, but this amounted to nothing in the estimation of men engaged in the slaughter.

The turpentine forests in the south today are being worked by men who know that in ten years the industry will be exhausted and the timber rendered useless. One of them admitted this fact and said in reply to the question, "What will the next generation do?" "Oh, better the next generation. I am interested in this one."

That tells the story and expresses the sentiment which prevails to large extent. "It is well for humanity that an All Wise Creator planned for extravagant waste as well as liberal use, so that when exhaustion discovered, unearths a substitute which frequently discounts the original."

Steel and iron have taken the place of wood very largely in construction and the cement blocks being made in all parts of the country. The ore bed and the said pit are not new creations, but they are made to contribute when other resources are exhausted.

A few years ago, when the Beaumont oil fields were discovered, the Lucas well sold for $1,000,000 and 100,000 people swarmed the little city, all eager for investment. Six months later 125 gusts equal to the Lucas had been developed and sealed up. The oil fields of Texas today are undeveloped because a Rockefeller has not been found to undertake the job.

Nature is a wonderful provider and many rich storehouses are still waiting to be unlocked. The great railroads, stretching out across the desert and through the mountains, make it possible to draw on these storehouses and the nation shares the benefits, while it dams the railroad. What we need to cultivate as a people is a spirit of gratitude to the great founder of nature's supplies, and a spirit of appreciation to the men who discover and develop them.

MEATS AND MEAT PRODUCTS

Exports of meats in September and the nine months ending with September, 1906, show a marked increase over the corresponding periods of last year. The preliminary figures of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor show that the value of meat and dairy products exported from the principal ports of the United States in the month of September, 1906, was $16,008,270, against $12,799,893 in September, 1905, and $11,894,832 in September, 1904. For the nine months ending with September the value of meat and dairy products exported was $147,795,647, against $123,544,314 in the corresponding months of 1905 and $109,369,576 in the corresponding period of 1904.

The only class of meat products showing a marked decline in exports is canned beef, of which the exportations for the nine months of the present year are 31 million pounds, against 52 1/2 millions in the corresponding months of last year, a part of this decline being due to a large reduction in the demands from Japan, to which the exports of canned beef were 14 1/4 million pounds in the eight months ending with August, 1905, and but 90 thousand pounds in the eight months ending with August, 1906.

In most other classes of meats the figures of 1906 show an increase over those for the corresponding period of 1905. Fresh beef exports amount to 202 million pounds, against 185 millions in the corresponding months of last year; salted beef, 56 1/2 million pounds, against 48 million pounds in the corresponding period of the preceding year; bacon, 291 million pounds, against 207 1/2 millions in the same months of 1905; fresh pork, 112 million pounds, against 106 millions in the corresponding period of the preceding year; and lard, 526 1/2 million pounds, against 435 1/2 millions in the corresponding months of 1905.

Dairy products also show a marked increase in exports in 1906 as compared with 1905. The quantity of butter exported in the nine months ending with September, 1906, is 21 1/2 million pounds, against 9 millions in the same months of last year, and of cheese, 18 1/2 million pounds, against a little over 6 millions in the corresponding months of 1905.

These figures are significant, for they indicate that the great packing industry stood the shock of the "Jungle" and has profited rather than suffered by the investigation which followed. Publicity is the best advertising in the world and legitimate lines of business have nothing to fear.

Thousands of fortunes have been made by advertising, says the Commercial Union, and so many good enterprises have been built up by careful, systematic and persistent advertising that it would seem that no business man in this day and generation would have to be persuaded to advertise. Nevertheless some advertisers need persuasion. An argument that is sometimes used by the business man that does not believe in advertising is that the newspapers themselves do not advertise. This is erroneous. Any enterprising newspaper in almost any community is the heaviest advertiser in that community. The best way for a newspaper to advertise is to make the publication better, to improve it, in other words. The sums that newspapers spend each and every year with that aim in view, would make the average business man's appropriation look very small.

Milwaukee voters will be educated as to how to vote for McGovern, half a dozen voting machines having been secured for that purpose. The state ticket is insignificant as compared to the office of district attorney and Manager Host is devoting all his energies to secure the election of his disgruntled friend.

Col. Moore and his associate, Mr. Loucks, are having enthusiastic meetings. They were in Jefferson Tuesday, Fond du Lac Wednesday, and are at Oshkosh today. The counties are being organized for a good roads campaign all along the line.

The campaign in New York is between the socialistic element of all complexions under the leadership of Hearst, and the better element of all classes supporting Hughes, the republican nominee. The election of Hughes means more than a party victory, for he represents the law respecting and law abiding citizens.

According to Mr. Bryan, ninety per cent of the republicans of Wisconsin are democrats and don't know it. That's a sad state of things and not very complimentary to the intelligence of the state.

Mr. Clough and his associates are on the ground. The city will do well to give them a franchise that they can use in securing capital to build the road.

An effort will be made to have Senator Spooner speak in Janesville. His many friends will be glad to hear him.

La Follette supported Lenroot and lost out. He will have the same experience with McGovern.

If Governor Davidson is wise, he will stay by Connor and let the new senator paddle his own canoe.

Bryan has come and gone and the state survives.

Imagination and Baldness. Dr. Emil Reich's theory of baldness is that it is due to the stifling of the imagination. Use your imagination, and you will never use hair restorer. The London Globe remarks that it certainly is significant that one never sees a baldheaded policeman giving evidence in a speed limit case.

Odd Monument. Perhaps one of the very oddest monuments is the tablet in a Berkshire church in memory of a soldier who had his left leg taken off "by the above ball," the actual cannon ball being inserted at the top.

Buy it in Janesville.

CLOUGH AND PARTY ON A TOUR OF THE ROUTE TO MADISON

Elyria, Ohio, Interurban Line Promoter and Capitalists Arrived in Janesville Last Evening.

Early this morning H. H. Clough, promoter of the proposed Janesville and Madison Interurban line, in company with the Messrs. Higginson of Waukegan, Ill., and MacAlister who arrived here with him last evening, departed in an automobile for a tour of the proposed route to the Capital City. They are expected to return to Janesville this evening and a conference will probably be held with some of the men who are friendly to the plan, the idea being to ascertain what can be done at the council meeting Monday night. The two gentlemen who have accompanied Mr. Clough here represent the financial interests which are ready to back the project, providing the people are willing to do the fair thing.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

The French budget commission has reduced the final figures of this year's budget from $802,000,000 to $766,000,000. This will necessitate a loan of $16,000,000.

The Russian foreign minister, M. Iswolsky, has arrived at Paris from St. Petersburg to confer with Foreign Minister Bourgeois on the international situation and the dual alliance.

M. Jaures, the Paris socialist leader, who recently announced that he would have to suspend the publication of his paper, Humanite, has received $5,000 from the German socialists.

Reports that Count Gotuchowski, Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs, has resigned are denied. Emperor Francis Joseph hesitates to grant the Hungarian demands for his dismissal.

The German secretary for foreign affairs, Herr Von Tschirsky, who is now visiting Rome, is very much annoyed at the publicity given to his journey, thus obliging him to pay visits to both the Quirinal and the Vatican, while he wished to remain incognito.

Watchmakers Out of Date. In New York city are about 700 signs that read "Watchmaker," and not a single one of them belongs to a watchmaker, and few that have them could make a watch, and if they could and did the watch would cost about $100, while any of them can sell a better watch for $20 that came from a great factory.

Railroad Commission is Still Wrestling with the Problem—Hopes to Reach Conclusions Soon. (Special to this Gazette.)

Jeffris of Janesville, who appeared for the sugar interests, and the commission hopes to make the decision in time for the application of whatever benefit may be involved to the present season.

Literary Note

When Elizabeth McCracken wrote for the Atlantic on "The Play and the Gallery" and "Books in the Tenement" she showed that she had not only observed the life of the Other Half, but that she understood it. An article of hers in the October number, "Fancies for the Tenements," bears this out even more strikingly. Miss McCracken is no sentimentalist. She does not pretend that the people of the tenements are "art-lovers" or that they always crave the best; she knows the facts too well. One woman she tells of was "politely grateful for a print of Raphael's angels. "But," she said, "they're lots prettier ones on a Christmas card I've got to home. The tenements have their own standard for judging pictures. "What's the story to it?" is the principal one. Human interest is what counts. Artists may talk about Art for Art's sake; the critic from the tenement doesn't know what that means, and he doesn't care. But he knows what he likes.

CHANGE IN PERSONNEL OF EMPLOYED CORPS AT LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

By the resignation of Bruce Kline, assistant secretary, a change has been made among the employed officers of the local Y. M. C. A. Linn Asplund, who has been serving as janitor for several months past, has succeeded Bruce Kline, and James Kline, a brother of Secretary J. C. Kline, has taken the position of janitor. Bruce Kline has commenced work in the office of the Lewis Knitting company.

Daisies Followed the War Philadelphia Bulletin: "There were no daisies in the south," said a southerner, "till after the civil war. Now we have daisies in profusion, and they are especially abundant in the regions visited by the northern armies. Sherman's march to the sea can be traced in the summer by a broad white trail of daisies. How was the daisy seed brought south? Undoubtedly it came in the hay that was shipped from the north for the horses' fodder."

IT'S A SOCIETY EVENT. OCCUPANTS OF BEST SEATS SHOULD BE IN FULL DRESS

STRANGER FOUND IN DEEP STUPOR

ALONZO HARKER LAY AS IF DEAD IN FRONT OF HOTEL.

HAD HE BEEN DOPED HERE?

One Theory Was That He Had Just Taken Drink Cure in Chicago and Sleep Was Result of Liquor. Seemingly to be perfectly sober, a stranger walked up to a settee in front of the Myers hotel this morning shortly before eleven o'clock and fifteen minutes later was discovered in a profound stupor by Patrolman Beneke. A brisk shaking failed to wake him or even open his eyes and his body was in an apparently lifeless condition. The patrol wagon was called and the man taken to the city hall lock-up.

The Washingtonian Home. There he was searched for means of identification. Two letters were found in his pockets. One was addressed to Alonzo Harker and the other Louie Harker. Both were directed to the Washingtonian Home, Chicago, one for the corner of Ashland and Madison streets and the other for Madison street and Ogden avenue. A card in his pocket, similar to those used in the Keeley institute and various homes for dependents, bore a day's program. Included in these directions the hours of 7, 1 and 5 o'clock were set for "treatment." It is supposed from this and a foot note, saying, "The saloons are your enemies; avoid them," that the institution is for the cure of the drink habit. Only Nickel in Pocket.

That the man had just come from there is evident by the fact that one letter bore a receiptal date of October 17. Another letter is from Cuba, Wis., and asks how much money was needed. From this it is supposed that Harker was en route to that place. It is possible that in making connections here he had several hours to spend and "fell by the way." With his system fully permeated with some "cure," liquor might affect him as he was this morning, not making him drunk but throwing him into an almost deathly sleep. Another theory is that Harker had been doped. The only belongings, other than the letters, that were found on his person were a door-key with a brass number tag, similar to those used in hotels, and a five-cent piece.

"Roped" Theory Exploded. That he had been rolled seems almost impossible from all appearances. He was sober when he first approached the Myers house. The man is about thirty-eight years of age, fairly tall, with a long thin nose and reddish mustache. His clothes are of fair material and in good condition.

LEO ROONEY SLEPT BESIDE THE TRACKS

Might Have Been Killed Had He Not Been Picked Up by Special Policeman Dalton.

John Dalton, flagman at the North High street grade crossing and special policeman at the St. Paul depot, found Leo Rooney asleep along side the North-Western tracks last evening. The man was in a dangerous position and had he not been discovered shortly after he commenced his dreams would probably have been killed. He is in the city lock-up today recovering from the effects of too much liquor.

BASKETBALL WILL SOON BE STARTED

Meeting of Those Interested Will Be Held Next Thursday at Y. M. C. A. Building.

Members of the Y. M. C. A. who are especially interested in basketball will hold a mass meeting in the parlor of the building next Thursday evening. The plans and prospects of the season will be discussed and the various classes will take up basketball practice immediately thereafter. There will probably be two senior teams at the Association this year and the best members of these will form the first team to represent the Association in outside games. The classes this year are better and stronger than ever. The business men's class, which in the past has not been a particular success, has a bright outlook. By November there will be fifteen members and there is every promise of it growing steadily as the members advertise the benefits they are receiving from the exercise. This class meets between 4:30 and 5:30 on Tuesday and Friday afternoons.

JACOB STERN IN BENEDICTS' RANK

WAS WEDDED IN CHICAGO YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

TO MRS. KATHERINE RICH

Happy Pair Are Expected to Arrive Here Sunday Evening—Surprise to Relatives and Friends.

When Jacob Stern, the well-known local cigar manufacturer, departed for Chicago at 9:20 yesterday morning he left no word of intention, even with his closest friends, that he would not return to Janesville alone. It cannot be learned whether or not Mrs. Katherine M. Rich, who resides on Prospect avenue, departed on the same train. But at any rate both reached Chicago sometime during the early portion of the day and they were married late in the afternoon. It is not known by whom the ceremony was performed and indeed, their future plans, save that they will return to Janesville Sunday evening, appear to have been confined to no one authorized to speak for them. Nevertheless their many friends will join in offering hearty congratulations.

Later Particulars. Late this afternoon the following particulars were received from a friend of the two principals: A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Stratford hotel, Chicago, last evening, the contracting parties being Jacob Stern and Mrs. Katherine Rich, both of this city. Rev. Dr. Cartwright officiated. Miss Ada Johnson of this city and Mr. Beard of Chicago were the only attendants.

WICKES WILL CASE EXCITES LOCAL INTEREST

Family Linen Was Given a Washing Before Judge Honore in Chicago on Wednesday.

The suit to break the will of the late Thomas H. Wickes, former vice-president of the Pullman Car Co., which was to go to the jury in Chicago this afternoon, attracted considerable attention in Janesville owing to the fact that George O. Ford, formerly of this city, was for a brief time the husband of Mrs. Florence A. Johnston, a daughter of Wickes and one of the plaintiffs in the action. The careers of the Wickes daughters which is alleged to have led the father to cut down their inheritances were given a airing before Judge Honore on Wednesday. Sandow, the strong man, and a mysterious Turk from the Midway Plaisance, are said to have figured in some of the daughters' escapades to which the father objected according to the testimony of O. S. Newell, division superintendent of the Pullman Co. at San Antonio, Texas, who had known Wickes intimately since 1871.

From E. O. Tyler, secretary of the Tabasco-Chippas Trading and Transportation Co., P. O. Clinton, the treasurer received word yesterday that the report that Judge Landis of the U. S. court had denied application for a receivership. This is deemed a complete refutation of the charges made as to the insolvency of the company and the information is pleasing to the Janesville stockholders.

Charles E. Magoon, Governor of Cuba

Brilliant Nebraska Jurist Who Has an Intimate Knowledge of the Latin American

Achievements of a Man Who Rose From the Position of a Country Lawyer and Became "The Law and Constitution and Digest of the Oriental Archipelago"—Gained Popularity in Panama and Made a Code of Laws For the Zone.

new man from the west, who had been invited to accept a presumably humble position, which turned out to be a highly important one. Just how many ancient and modern tomes in yellow sheep binding Magoon pored over—American, British, Spanish and polyglot—to make the punishments fit the crimes, to bring cosmos out of chaos, to keep the war department and the state department and the president from stumbling into pitfalls in the dark, the world knows not. But the world of lawyers knows quite well that bulky book written by Magoon, containing his opinions and observations, called "The Law of Civil Government Under Military Occupation," which Secretary Root caused the government to publish. Several editions were required. It was something new in the literature of jurisprudence.

"Magoon," remarked Root, "has been the law and constitution and digest of the oriental archipelago."

Now we have the secret of Magoon's appointment to rule Cuba. He knows the law of civil government under military occupation.

Dug and Plugged.

For five years he dug and plugged. Still nobody heard of him save the civil administrators in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines—William H. Taft and the others. They heard of him quite frequently. In time the isthmian canal commission was created. Magoon was made general counsel and "law officer" to the commission, and his name got into the newspapers.

"Magoon? Magoon? Who is Magoon?" asked many. It was a new name and had a sort of funny sound. Some was misspelled. It was Magoon. President Roosevelt made Magoon a member of the canal commission and then supplemented the compliment by making him governor of the Panama canal zone. The "judge" called at the White House to thank the president.

"When a man has won his spurs as you have," observed the president, "there is no need of his thinking anybody to wear them."

So down to Panama went Magoon as governor of the canal zone. Here again was an altogether new job. It was like giving an actor a place in a play and making him create his own character with nothing to go by except his knowledge of the art and his aptness. The zone had no code of laws. Magoon did what Napoleon did for France—he made a code. Then he enforced it.

Talked to Them Like a Father.

The governor had much to do. Panama was a very new republic, for which Uncle Sam stood sponsor. It was a land where yellow fever and revolutions were liable to break out any day. Yellow fever did break out in the canal zone, and Governor Magoon went after it with a big stick. He cleaned up the premises and stamped his foot down hard on Yellow Jack. Then a revolution began to show symptoms. The governor, who had made himself very popular with all sorts of people in Panama, talked to the populace like a father. He made a Fourth of July speech—told them that the United States government expected great things of them and that Uncle Sam thought they were pretty fine folks—and the revolutionary cloud flew over before it burst.

He had been governor but a few weeks when there came a demand from Panama that he be made also the United States minister to that republic. Thus spoke the Panama Star and Herald:

"With a full realization of the ability and tact of Governor Magoon and with a knowledge of the high esteem felt for him by the government of the republic, we would respectfully request his excellency President Roosevelt to appoint him as minister also. We do this with a feeling of confidence that such an appointment will give much pleasure here and that owing to his recognized tact and ability the many little difficulties that are bound to occur between the two countries will be speedily removed in a dignified and honorable manner satisfactory to all parties."

Six weeks after his appointment as governor he became minister also.

Governor Magoon continued his study of the Latin Americans, began when he was poring over old Spanish records and reports at Washington. Now he had opportunity to make a study at first hand. "I was very much gratified," he said during an official visit to Washington, "that the favorable opinion that I had formed of the Latin Americans was justified by the facts."

This reveals the judicial mind. Many of us are too prone to look upon the Latin American as an inferior person—a jerky, excitable, whipper-snapper individual not to be considered seriously. Magoon's sober judgment constrained him to view the problem from all sides. He believed that the Latin American was a pretty good sort of fellow after all. He was in sympathy with the people, and that is one factor in his success.

Now, as to his administration of Cuban affairs, what? Time and events must tell. The president and the secretaries of state and war believe in him. Their belief no doubt is based upon his past performances and is buoyed up by their recognition of the fact that Governor Magoon knows the Latin American, that he knows "civil law under military occupation" and that he wrote most of the legal opinions for the military government of Cuba prior to the formation of the republic. The outlook appears promising.

Governor Magoon is a bachelor. Nearly every time he comes to the United States he makes a trip out to Lincoln, Neb., not to reopen that law office—he has lost the key somehow—but to visit his venerable mother, who thinks Charles is not making any sort of a fool of himself.

"Daredevil" Bell, Chief of Staff

Brilliant Career of the Army's "General Manager" and Military Adviser to the President

An All Round Handy Man Who Has a Habit of Getting There First.
So Dashing in His Fighting Tactics That His Regiment Was Called the "Suicide Club"—Thrilling Instances of His Quick Action in Emergencies

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

RECENT orders for the dispatching of troops to Cuba have called public attention again to Brigadier General J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the United States army, who also has been ordered to Cuba himself. Most of the newspapers have stated that these orders for the movement of troops were issued by General Bell. The truth is that they were issued through General Bell. There is quite a difference. The distinction between "by" and "through" as used in this connection indicates the difference between what General Bell's position as chief of staff really is and what the public has come to believe it is.

Doubtless at some time since last April, when General Bell was detailed—mark the word—as chief of staff, you have read that this estimable officer is "the head of the army." But he isn't. No doubt also you have read that he is "really in command of the army." But he isn't.

"But," you may say, "General Bell is the officer of highest authority in the army, and now we have you. Ah!"

Again, he isn't.

The chief of staff is not a matter of rank. President Roosevelt did not raise General Bell's rank in the least when he detailed him as chief of staff. He was the senior brigadier then, and he still is. Half a dozen major generals of war operations he must be the right man in the right place. President Roosevelt appears to have taken this view last spring, when, kicking aside precedents as one kicks aside a worn out shoe, he determined to assign as his chief of staff a man still young enough to work like a thoroughbred and one whose retirement by age, limit was still so far off that in all reasonable probability he would remain in the position long enough to get used to its duties and carry out some definite ideas. Three or four of our preceding chiefs of staff have been in turn the lieutenant general who was just about to retire on account of having reached the age limit of active service. Mr. Roosevelt simply concluded to quit complimenting his veteran "heads of the army" by giving them a few months hard work as chief of staff before retirement. He glanced about, and his eye fell upon Frank Bell as the army people used to call him. For several years the president had been sitting up and taking notice of Bell. Here apparently was a man after his own heart—a strenuous sort of individual who could swim a swamp with a knife between his teeth and go after the enemy without stopping to dress.

General Bell is just that sort of chap. That is how he happens to be chief of staff. Back in 1897 a first lieutenant in the Seventh cavalry, already forty-one years of age and with

Chief of Scouts.

Bell was wounded the very day that the Filipino outbreak occurred, but a scouting department had been organized, and he was made chief of scouts. Here his twenty years of frontier work came in handy. He took to horseback and stayed there for about fourteen months. Once he had occasion to make a report to General MacArthur, commanding. There was a mucky swamp between him and the general, and the matter was important. Bell stripped off all his clothes except his hat, buckled his cartridge belt about his waist, mounted his horse and plunged through the swamp. On the other side he climbed up the bank, lathered with mud, and approaching General MacArthur saluted, saying, "Sir, I have the honor to report," and so on to the end of his story, while the general gasped in amazement.

One of his troopers tells another story of Bell's quick action in an emergency. It happened after the rising of the thirty-sixth volunteer infantry and was a town in Luzon.

"The colonel didn't have men enough to garrison Porac," says this trooper, "and he'd outside fighting, too, so we had a habit of 'hikin' into Porac about every other day and capturing the town, an' nex' day the Guggins 'uld come in an' capture it back. We used to say 'when things wuz slack-like, 'Well, we'll go in an' capture Porac before breakfast for exercise.' One day we wuz stripped, swimmin' in a creek, and a lot of Filipinos begins operations on our right. Colonel Bell, who was swimmin' with us, jinked his belt an' a bolster about his waist, mounted his horse an' took out after them Guggins, firin' as he rode. They thought he wuz a whole army, I reckon, for they scattered like a bunch o' bay steers."

The "Suicide Club."

So dashing in his fighting operations was Bell that the other soldiers called his regiment the "Suicide Club." The colonel was dubbed "Daredevil" Bell. At Manila a war correspondent announced his intention to go out and get with Bell's forces.

"You're foolish to do that," said an old army officer. "You just stay here in town and commit suicide. That will save you the trouble of the long trip, and the results will be the same."

General Bell—he soon got to be a brigadier general of volunteers—believed that the way to fight the Filipinos was to go after them and hit them hard. They wouldn't stand up and fight he said. Accordingly he instructed his officers in his theory of fighting, and they put it to practice. One result was that more medals of honor and more promotions for meritorious service or gallantry in action came to Bell's troops than to any other troops in the Philippines. Bell himself while still a volunteer colonel received a medal of honor through congress at the suggestion of his commanding general and the president of the United States. In a tight race Porac he rode far ahead of his command, chasing all alone two Filipino officers and five privates. He captured a captain and two privates and brought them into camp. General Elwell S. Otis in commending him to the war department for distinguished bravery in battle remarked that Bell repeatedly had done things like this, "and the wonder was that he was still alive."

This recalls a little story that is told of General Bell since he returned to the United States. In the army maneuvers at Fort Riley during a sham battle General Barry told his cavalrymen to keep a sharp eye out for General Bell. "He will be sure to expose himself to danger," said Barry, "and you must get him."

General Bell did expose himself, the cavalry swooped down, and he was forced to flee precipitately. The umpires formally decided that Bell had been captured. Bell objected with emphasis.

"Possibly I was killed," he said, "but I wasn't captured—never!"

And so the man who at forty-one was disgraced because he expected to retire at sixty-four as a captain is now at fifty the chief of staff. According to popular conception, General Bell is giving orders to his superiors—the six major generals and Lieutenant General MacArthur. As a matter of fact, an age long precedent has been overturned here, Bell being the first officer in the army even to have the appearance of giving orders to his superiors. In one sense this is turning military traditions topsy turvy, though when the situation is properly boiled down there is found to be much more fuss than feathers in the pot. Other interesting facts are that General Bell is the first man without civil war experience to be chief of staff and the first West Pointer to hold that post. In fact, the general seems to have a habit of getting there first.

Captain Bell's promotion to general without stopping at way stations was one of several recent instances of rapid transit to high rank, which in their cumulative effect have tossed army traditions to the winds, and the brigadier's assignment to the highly important post of chief of staff was another. This new order in our army means promotion by merit instead of by seniority, or, to put it another way, it means the selection for high position and important work of officers who have shown their fitness for such selection by deeds done when opportunity offered, as in the case of this Kentucky knight, who may be called the Francis Marion of the American army in the Philippines.

How One Man Wasted 50 Years of His Life. Thousands Like Him.

"What's the use of eatin', anyhow?" said the somber dyspeptic to his rosy, prosperous-looking friend. "Here I've been eatin' three times a day, and sometimes twice a day, for 50 years, and look at me. I'm rawboned and skinny, still at the bottom of the ladder, sour on the world, and a pessimist. I know it, and I can't help it. If I had it to do over again, though, I would take care of my stomach, for I don't believe I ever really relished a meal in my life, not even mother's Christmas dinners, and I firmly believe that my way of eating, or whatever it was, brought along with it darkness and impossibility of success."

"You're right," nodded his companion. "Of course, that isn't always the case. But in this age we must not only 'trust in the Lord and keep our powder dry,' but we must swallow something with our food. Cheerfulness, especially while eating, which is the most essential act of man, is as necessary to him as sunshine is to the flowers. Nothing normal can be produced in darkness."

"But this is what you haven't been doing, Mr. Dyspeptic. Your brain and your stomach, remember, are twins, and you have to treat them accordingly. Why not start now and repair the damage you've done? It is never too late, you know."

"You mean at my age? And suppose you can't always get the sunshine?"

"Absolutely, yes. Science has made it possible to get the sunshine, the health and the strength that your stomach needs, all put up together in little tablets. They call them Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the most effective tablets in the world for this very thing. One ingredient in these tablets digests 3,000 grains of food without the help of the stomach. Two tablets after each meal can do more work, quicker work and better work, in digesting a heavy meal, than the stomach can itself. The stomach need not work at all. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do all the work, and gives your jaded stomach a rest, the rest it needs. Meanwhile you cure yourself of brash, irritation, burning sensation, heartburn, sour stomach, acidity, fermentation, bloating, and all the worst cases of dyspepsia and indigestion. You get rid of them for all time. And then, besides, you can eat all you want and whenever you want, and you will also relish mother's Christmas dinners if you will take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating. That's the sunshine I was talking about. Then your face will reflect the internal change going on, you'll be more energetic, your mind will be clearer, you will have more confidence in yourself, you'll be happier, and you'll be yourself again."

"Your heart will change and you'll feel rosy. You'll enjoy your meals and live. Let's walk down to the drug store and let me introduce you to one little package of these Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You can get them at any drug store in the world for only 50c a package. It is worth it, Mr. Dyspeptic."

BEN HUR DANCE AN ENJOYABLE EVENT

Forty-five Couples Participated in the Grand March at Central Hall at Nine o'Clock Last Evening.

Forty-five couples attended a very enjoyable dancing party given by Janesville Court No. 1, Tribe of Ben Hur, at Central hall last evening. The festivities commenced with a grand march at nine o'clock and the guests were provided with handsome soured dance programs. Knott & Hatch's orchestra furnished the inspiration. The floor committees consisted of G. L. Addicks, Charles H. Nott, Dr. G. B. Thuermer, C. P. Garst, and Joseph Borbeck.

MACHINE CO'S PUMP TESTED LAST NIGHT

F. A. Taylor Complained But Everyone Else Seemed Pleased With the Result.

Supt. Norman I. Milliken of the Janesville Machine Co.'s plant watched four powerful streams of water from 1½-inch nozzles, two pointed upward and two more clearing at a distance of fifty yards, the second story runway that is thrown across the court, at half past seven o'clock last evening and surmised that the establishment is fairly well prepared for fire. F. A. Taylor who appeared on the scene to complain that his well were being submerged was not very well pleased with the spectacle as Mr. Milliken. These tests are made every two weeks, or oftener, largely as a precautionary measure but incidentally to keep the dispositions of the fire insurance underwriters sweetened up. A fair breeze was blowing and several of the men were drenched before the test was finished. The Fairbanks-Morse pump will throw 1,000 gallons a minute when it is under full headway. A hundred pounds of steam was working it last night. The suction pipe extends out into the river about 12 feet and is 12 inches in diameter with an eight-inch discharge. Sand which got into this suction pipe before its recent extension has been causing a little trouble with the valves. The automatic sprinkler system can be connected with the pump in case the city water plant should fail to meet an emergency. "For some reason or other," said Mr. Milliken, "the insurance men seem to be dissatisfied, to a certain extent, of the local water plant. It may be that some of the machinery is old."

IS A VICTIM OF THE WANDERLUST

Mrs. Eleanor G. Stetson, Artist Who Formerly Lived in Janesville, Returns to Chicago After Travel.

Mrs. Eleanor G. Stetson, daughter of D. C. Burdick of this city and sister of Earl Doty, the actor, is the subject of the following very interesting notice in the Chicago Daily Journal of Wednesday:

"There are many artists who have the traveling fever and who stop in one city or country long enough to absorb an impression, but few of the successful ones feel that wanderlust which drives them from land to land without any interruption of their work. But Mrs. Eleanor G. Stetson, formerly of Chicago, now of New York, Paris—any city on the map of the round world—works best when hurrying from place to place carrying her canvases and materials, stopping wherever the people interest her and working always. After months of her long journeys she has again returned to Chicago.

"Mrs. Stetson's work became known during the world's fair in Chicago in 1893, when a few of her pictures were hung by the art committee of the exposition. At that time she was living in Chicago and had received no art instruction whatever.
The year before she painted the five pictures which were seen at the exposition. Then she went to Paris for study, taking up portrait painting and the painting of animals. She works with equal freedom in either oil or pastel, and Chicago has several examples of her art.

"Mrs. Stetson's portrait of McKinley, hanging in the rooms of the Hamilton club is the best likeness of the martyred president in Chicago, and some critics claim that no better one exists. The artist's most noted portrait of recent date is a likeness of James H. Breckinridge, a member of the managers of the Auditorium hotel.
She also painted the picture of Ben-King that hangs in the Chicago Press club.

"Earlier in her career Mrs. Stetson was interested principally in animals, and although many of her canvases showed human figures, one could see that the deepest interest had gone into the work on some tiger or lion that made part of the composition. Later, portraits seemed to fascinate the artist, and she spent many years in earnest study, the results showing clearly in her work.

"Very recently she has turned from serious portraiture and from wild beasts to the drawing of dainty Parisian baller girls, and has made for this work a new, and she has acquired a technique that gives an exquisite delicateness to face and figure and a tuffiness to the gauzy garb.

"Mrs. Stetson is visiting Chicago, and one of the pictures that helped at the very first to make her name prominent is on exhibition in a store window at the corner of State and Adams street. This painting, 'The Lion's Bride,' is one of the five hung at the world's fair, and is perhaps her most widely-known picture. Mrs.
Stetson is a native of Janesville, Wis.,
but always regarded Chicago as her home until her work took her to New York and Paris."

Brother of and Successor to Late State

"Dr. David Roberts of Waukesha, brother of the late Dr. E. D. Roberts of this city, who was recently appointed state veterinarian to fill the place made vacant by his brother's death and whose removal is sought by certain members of the profession, yesterday declared that the opposition to him was due to professional jealousy.

"A number of the men who are opposing me," said Dr. Roberts, "are manufacturers of patent medicines, and because I have been successful and they have not they are jealous. I can show anyone letters that I am receiving not only from Wisconsin people but from stockmen in other states congratulating me on my appointment.
Heretofore I have considered it beneath my dignity to notice these attacks."

A committee, consisting of Drs. J.
A. McGarry, H. E. Cline, Milwaukee;
A. H. Hartwig, Watertown; A. L.
Tosse, Cambridge; A. H. Arpke, Sheboygan; E. R. Fick, Manitowish; and J. Wilkinson, Oconomowoc, was appointed at the conference of members of the Wisconsin Veterinary association Wednesday evening, to wait upon Gov. James O. Davidson and present resolutions protesting against the recent appointment of Dr. David Roberts of Waukesha, to the position of state veterinarian. The resolution adopted by the committee, representing the state association, is as follows:

"We protest against the appointment of David Roberts, Waukesha, to the office of state veterinarian by Gov.
James O. Davidson. Such an appointment would be a detriment to the live stock industry of the state of Wisconsin. Our reasons are as follows:

"David Roberts is not considered by the profession in this state to be a legitimate veterinarian and, therefore, is not qualified to hold so responsible
a position.

"In a recent pamphlet issued by said David Roberts to farmers and stockmen he offers to send them a veterinary certificate of health of their live stock on receipt of $5, which certificate purports to protect the reputation of their herds and leads them to believe that they have a legal certificate of health, and which certificate has absolutely no value to them.

"The office of state veterinarian is growing more and more important as the live stock interests are growing in this state and that it requires the very best talent obtainable to perform the duties of this office, which has been abused for the last five years."

FRANCIS MURPHY ON WAY TO CALIFORNIA

Regrets That He Cannot Stop in Janesville—Son a Candidate for Lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania.

From Francis Murphy, the eloquent advocate of a better life, who has spoken in Janesville on several occasions, Dr. James Mills has received the following letter:

"Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 16, 1906.
"My dear brother Dr. Mills:
I hoped to be able to write you that I would spend a Sabbath in your beautiful city of Janesville, but circumstances over which I have no control compel me to deny myself the great pleasure of seeing you face to face,
and all the dear ones who have done so much for me. I am sorry in my heart that I cannot come to you. It would do me so much good to see you and the dear boys. My children here insist that I must not stop by the way. My sight is not good at all, and they go with me as far as Chicago to see me safe on the Santa Fe train. I think I am all right, but I do know that my sight is quite dim, but I can get along first rate; however, I yield to their wish, and their great care and anxiety for me is the only thing that prevents me from being with you.

"I have had a delightful time here visiting with my children and multitude of friends. I have renewed my youth and my strength, and were I to yield to the invitations I have had to sneak I don't think I would ever get back to California, but the children insisted I must deny myself the pleasure of my husband my health and strength.

"The election here is an interesting one, and my son, Robert S. Murphy, is a candidate on the republican ticket for the lieutenant governorship of the state. I am not a politician, and was opposed to my son being named, and he did not seek it himself, but somehow or other he was called upon and named by acclamation, but there is a great big fuss, as you notice, in the press, over the building of a state capitol in which they say there is about $5,000,000 of a steal, and that has done the republican ticket no good, and possibly will defeat it. In any event, the country is safe.

"I wish you would come to California and see us. My home is No.
1808 Addison Place. No one would be more welcome than you, or any of the boys that you would introduce to me. You have my grateful thanks for your valuable service when I was in great need.

"My love to John Jones and Brother Al Smith, and all the rest of the men, to the worthy president of the association, to the secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, and to the Congregational minister, and all the ministers of the city and the Christian people, and the public press, who were so very, very kind and helpful. God be with you, one and all.

Yours in heart,
"FRANCIS MURPHY."

One Generation to Another," Etc.

Copyright, 1894, by HARPER & BROTHERS

Maurice Gordon did not come back in an hour. It was nearly 10 o'clock before they heard his footstep on the gravel. By that time Jocelyn had heard the whole story. She had asked one or two questions which somehow cast a different light upon the narrative, and she had listened to the answers with a grave, judicial little smile—the smile of a judge whose verdict was preordained, whose knowledge had nothing to gain from evidence.

Because she loved him she took his story and twisted it and turned it to a shape of her own liking. Those items which he had considered important she passed over as trifles; the trides she magnified into the cornerstones upon which the edifice was built. She set the lame story upon its legs, and it stood upright. She believed what he had never told, and much that he related she chose to discredit—because she loved him. She perceived motives where he assured her there were none; she recognized the force of circumstance where he took the blame to himself—because she loved him. She maintained that the past was good; that he could not have acted differently; that she would not have had it otherwise—because she loved him.

And who shall say that she was wrong?

Jack went out to meet Maurice Gordon when they heard his footstep, and as they walked back to the house he told him. Gordon was quite honest about it.

"I hoped," he said, "when I ran against you in the woods, that that was why you had come back. Nothing could have given me greater happiness. I thought I am glad, old chap!" They sat far into the night arranging their lives. Jack was nervously anxious to get back to England. He could not rid his mind of the picture he had seen as he left his father's presence, and take his passage to Africa—the picture of an old man sitting in a still backed chair before a dying fire. Moreover, he was afraid of Africa. The air of Africa had laid his hand upon his foot almost as soon as he had set his foot upon its torrid strand. He was afraid of the climate for Jocelyn; he was afraid of it for himself. The happiness that comes late must be firmly held. Nothing must be forgotten to secure it or else it may slip between the fingers at the last moment.

Those who have snatched happiness late in life can tell of a thousand details carefully attended to, a whole existence laid out in preparation for it, of health fostered, small pleasures relinquished, days carefully spent.

Jack Meredith was nervously apprehensive that his happiness might even now slip through his fingers. Truly, climatic influence is a strange and wonderful thing. It was Africa that had done this, and he was conscious of it. He remembered Victor Durand's strange outburst on their first meeting, a few miles below Muala on the Ogowe river, and the remembrance only made him the more anxious, that Jocelyn and he should turn their backs upon the accursed west coast forever.

Before they went to bed that night it was all arranged. Jack Meredith had carried his point. Maurice and Jocelyn were to sail with him for England by the first boat. Jocelyn and he compiled a telegram to be sent off first thing by a native boat to St. Paul de Louanda. It was addressed to Sir John Meredith, London, and signed "Meredith, Louango." The text of it was:—

I bring Jocelyn home by first boat.

And the last words, like the first, must be of an old man in London. We found him in the midst of a brilliant assembly.

We leave him lying stiffly on his solemn four post bed.

sembly. We leave him alone. We leave him lying stiffly on his solemn four post bed, with his keen, proud face turned fearfully toward his Maker. His lips are still. They wear a smile which even in death is slightly cynical. On the table at his bedside lies a submarine telegram from Africa. It is unopened.

..Forty Years Ago..

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, October 19, 1866.—The Horse Fair.

The second day of the horse fair opened with better prospects than the first, the attendance being much larger and more interest manifested. Only two races were had on the track, however; one pacing and one trotting; the weather was rather unfavorable for sports, as dark clouds overhung the horizon all day, and late in the afternoon an unwholesome drizzly rain set in, which added much to the discomfort of the trotting race.

A Visit to the Jail.—What We saw.—Through the courtesy of Sheriff Winchester we had the privilege to visit the jail this morning not, we have to say, to make a protracted visit—but to look over the institution and see its conditions and inmates. We found the jail neat and cleanly in all departments, showing great efficiency and care on the part of those in charge. The cells are kept in a wholesome state by a generous application of water and whitewash, and the whole building bears evidence of a close supervision. Among the many good sheriffs Rock county has had Mr. Winchester is one of the best.

He has now seventeen boarders—three women and fourteen men.

Toward noon today we learn that Officer Albright made a descent on some bootblacks, charged with stealing apples and breaking windows, and secured five of them, thus adding that number to Mr. Winchester's wards.

We learn from the sheriff that the prisoners express the greatest desire for reading matter, and we commend this subject again to the consideration of our readers. Here is a field for the labors of some Florence Nightingale, disposed to do good to the erring.

Wendell Phillips made a speech in Boston on Thursday evening, in which he went to the bottom of the issues before the people. He urged the impeachment of President Johnson and charges against him with a lack of backbone. He also finds fault with General Grant for his reticence in regard to the outrages committed upon Union men in the south.

House Work

Need Not Wear Her Out

The drudgery of house work seems never ending to tired-out, dispirited women who suffer from female complaints or irregularities. Inflammation and ulceration cause fearful bearing-down pains which are aggravated by much standing on the feet, and lifting necessary in house work.

But let no woman despair of relief from this torture. That famous tonic reconstructor of diseased or disordered female organism, has cured more than one million American Women, and it will cure you. When troubled with painful irregularities, when back-aches and headaches drive out all ambition, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring back health, strength, and happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

It Gave Me New Life and Vigor

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Last spring, while we were moving, I did considerable more work than my strength permitted, and, having mental trouble at the same time, my health broke down completely and I found myself unable to rest or eat. My nervous system became shattered and I was pale and emaciated and had to take to my bed. My sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, although I had no faith in patent medicines, I was so miserable that I would take anything for relief. I found that it made a complete change for the better, inducing appetite and restful sleep and imparting new life and vigor to my entire system. I gained nearly fourteen pounds, my complexion looked fresh and clear, and my best friends were surprised and pleased at the change and could hardly credit the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had accomplished it.

GOLDEN WEDDING OF PROMINENT COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tracy of Milton Celebrated Event—Other News of the College Village.

Milton, Oct. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tracy were married in Emerald Grove Oct. 15, 1856. Last Monday was the fiftieth anniversary of that event. Some of their friends thought that it was an occasion which ought not to go by unnoticed and accordingly arranged for a remembrance of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Tracy were invited to the Congregational parsonage to spend the afternoon. Soon after their arrival invited guests to the number of one hundred or more began to come to pay their congratulations. Refreshments were served. Dr. L. A. Platts voiced the congratulations and good wishes in a few well chosen words. Rev. A. L. McClelland spoke a few words of appreciation and presented a purse of gold as a token of the love and esteem in which the bride and groom are held in this community where they have lived for many years, during which time Mr. Tracy has held offices of trust and honor in the county, town, and village, he being the first president of the village, treasurer of the village and town, and for six years county superintendent of schools, and an influential member of the church and Sunday school. Deacon Tracy made a few remarks in expression of thanks for the kindly way in which they had been remembered. Rev. A. L. Platts of Rochester, their former pastor, offered prayer. The whole company sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," a poem, "Their Golden Wedding," was read, and the company dispersed richly repaid for its recognition of the day. Only five of the guests who were present at the wedding, fifty years ago are now living. Three of these were at the golden wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Tracy have had three children, four grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. All of these, except a daughter who died some years ago, were present on this occasion. Mrs. Tracy's sister, Mrs. Williams of Delavan, and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Boynton of Emerald Grove were also in attendance.

Thavin Orchestra Concert
The concert given Tuesday evening by the Thavin orchestra of Chicago, under the auspices of the senior class of Milton college, was one of the finest entertainments given here in many a day. That the audience fully appreciated and heartily enjoyed the program was evidenced by their applause and requests for repetitions, to which the director responded very graciously. The management, as the following program shows, aims to please all classes of music-lovers and succeeds admirably: March Tannhauser, Wagner; Overture—Orpheus, Offenbach; Cornet Solo—"Good Bye," Tosti; (a) "Love in Idleness," Allen Macbeth; (b) Ethiopian Alabama. Parol Jones; Vocal—Better Land, Cowen—Miss Lena Grambling; Humorous—The Troubles of an Amateur Orchestra; Intermission; Waltz—Sousvenir De Baden Baden, N. Bauschisch; Selection—Bohemian Girl, Balfe; Vocal—Waltz Song, The Kiss—Adatti; American National Airs, Tobani. Bridal Couple Received

S.S.S. HEALS OLD SORES

Every old sore exists because of a polluted condition of the blood. This vital fluid is infected with some germ or old taint, or perhaps has been left in an unhealthy condition from a long spell of sickness, or the trouble may be inherited. The poisonous germs and matter with which the blood is saturated force an outlet on the face, arms, legs or other part of the body and form a sore or ulcer. This being continually fed by a polluted blood supply, grows red and angry, festers and eats into the surrounding flesh until it becomes what is very aptly termed an "old sore." The relief produced by external treatment is only temporary. The only treatment that can do any real good is a blood purifier that goes to the very root of the trouble and removes the cause, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. It drives out from the circulation all morbid matter and germs, even reaching down to hereditary taints, and by cleansing the blood heals old sores permanently. S. S. S. not only removes all taints and poisons from the blood but builds it up by supplying it with the rich, health-sustaining properties it needs to keep the system in health. S. S. S. makes pure blood and a sore must heal if the blood is pure and healthy. Book on Sores and Ulcers and medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.
